

HealthyU:

The first step in employee wellness

Health screening made easy for business

When it comes to your bottom line, your employees' health matters more than you might think. Missed time due to chronic illnesses hurts productivity and can have a devastating impact on your health care costs.

Our HealthyU biometric screening programs allow your employees to have baseline information about their health. More importantly, these screenings potentially detect illness earlier when it is more treatable and less costly for you and your employees.

Wellness made easy for employers

- Screenings can take place right at the employer work site
- Health evaluations are billed through claims as part of the employee's medical benefit
- For some plans, the cost of the program is part of the premium*
- Data reporting makes it easy to identify new wellness program opportunities
- Both fingerstick and venipuncture testing options available

Tools to empower employees

- Detailed personal health reports evaluate current health status and provide methods to maintain or improve it
- Individual risk assessment with health improvement recommendations
- Free access to online health coaching and support services and printed educational tools
